Four Corners AISES Professional Chapter Announces New Logo and Website

Farmington, New Mexico — The Four Corners AISES Professional Chapter has launched a new website and accepted a new logo through a logo design contest.

Four Corners AISES solicited for logo designs that incorporated the mission and vision of AISES. Overall, the Four Corners AISES received twelve different logo designs and the members voted unanimously for one of the twelve logos as shown in the letterhead of this press release. The logo was designed by Lance Aspaas with Iíná bá, Inc., and Lance is also a member of Four Corners AISES.

“The logo was designed to give a holistic view that every member of AISES has the ability to succeed with STEM by using locally available resources,” said Lance Aspaas, Iíná bá Project Engineer and Surveyor.

“We’re very appreciative for all the innovative logo designs that were submitted and thank Lance for contribution to the Four Corners AISES, said Tyler Frazier, Four Corners AISES Educational Outreach Chair and a member of the Social Media Committee.

“In the past weeks, the Social Media Committee has been working to bring forward an innovative platform with tools that our members and the public can use to see what Four Corners AISES is up to,” said Lavina Becenti, Four Corners Social Media Committee Chair. “The Committee has work on overhauling the Chapter’s website and its now available at https://www.4caisespro.org. The website will provide a multitude of information of STEM initiatives and programs. In the next few months, the Committee plans to have other media tools up and running to help facilitate the sharing of ideas and values.”

About AISES

AISES was founded in 1977 and is a national, nonprofit organization focused on substantially increasing the representation of American Indians, Alaska Natives, Native Hawaiians, Pacific Islanders, First Nations and other indigenous peoples of North America in Science, Technology, Engineering and Math studies and careers.

###

For more information, contact:

Sam Woods
(505) 259-0260
sam.woods@tachiinii.com